Tricks for a small bathroom

- ✓ Do not be afraid of large formats
- ✓ Choose neutral tones - grey and beige tones are currently popular
- ✓ On the contrary, decorations in a darker colour will attract attention
- ✓ Marble is ideal for optical games, and gives the impression of integrity

More information about the change is available at www.rako.eu, in the Inspiration section

Create your functional wall! With counters, niches tiled with ceramic tiles, will help you keep everything in order, and have everything always at hand.

Designs of bathrooms require well-developed concepts. Use advice and assistance from authorised partners; contacts are available at www.rako.eu concept plus on a visit

While shower baths of 80 x 80 cm were the most common selection in the past, shower boxes of double widths are no exception now. There are several reasons why shower boxes have virtually replaced bath tubs: comfortable access, levels of safety when showering, optical interconnection of the bathroom floor with the adjoining shower box.

on a visit deco

R&KO opened its archives and selected the most interesting historical motifs for the Deco series, which the designers worked with. A certain imperfection of perspective is intentional; it should invoke the illusion of the original historic tile flooring. All decorations of the Deco series will stand out in combination with the currently prevailing wave of neutral grey and earthy tones.

on a visit defile

Thanks to its metallic surface, the Defile series gives the impression of a luxurious look, it's neutral, and therefore, accessories of any colours are acceptable. In addition, rectified tiles enable the effective laying of tiles with minimum joints, thus maintaining the impression of an integrated area. In addition, using the tile size of 30 x 60 cm and mosaic of 5 cm, the room gains interesting dynamics.

on a visit fashion

This original bathroom goes beyond the standard range, mainly due to the uncommon use of ceramic tiles. For the wall, the architect proposed the Fashion Series. In addition to a 30 x 60 cm large-format tile and a 5 x 10 cm mosaic in anthracite colour, oblique laying, and a combination of gold-colour doors of bathroom furniture contributed to its effective appearance.

on a visit stones

With the use of the Stones series, the owners interconnected not only the walls and floor of the bathroom, but also the floor of the hall, toilets, and technical rooms. The aesthetic effect of this series is based on the imitation of stone, and combines several formats, which impressed us. A single-colour finish, combined with a fine texture, creates the impression of alternating gloss and matt surfaces. This is changed with lighting, so the surface seems to come alive, appreciate the owners.

When the married couple selected the tiles, the owner insisted on the RIKO brand, and she explains why: „In our previous apartment, we had Spanish tiles. Now, we can compare, and Czech production seems to be more acceptable for us. The tiles are durable, great looking, and the price is good too. It was possible to use the tiles to make fashionable, so-called ceramic corners. „The owners hesitated whether a brown shade (in a total of four in this series) would be OK, but, finally they combined it with a light colour version.

Thanks to its neutral appearance, the Random series can perfectly interconnect the whole interior from the bathroom to the kitchen, or the outdoor terrace. The large-format Random series faithfully imitates natural stone. Digital printing deliberately enhances random surface deviations. Random is one of the most popular series of recent times!

„We like natural materials. The imitation of stone on Random ceramic floors is perfect, and with regard to under floor heating in a villa from the 1930s, this was a clear selection, also thanks to excellent heat conduction,“ summarise the owners. In the house, the tiles of 60 x 60 cm on the floor are alternated with small mosaic tiles in bathrooms, while the entrance hall tiles were custom made for the entrance hall.

„I prefer neutral tiles, no colourful last words in fashion,“ the owner, a mother of three children, describes her selection, adding: „With regard to the type of tiles themselves, I wanted something practical and easy to clean.“ And what about the joint colour? Even though the joint colour depends greatly on customers, tiler Mr. Preis recommends grey joints. „I prefer grey shades of joints, as they can be perfectly cleaned and they match any tile colours. I always use flexible, but hard jointing materials. They do not wear quickly, and can well maintained,“ says František Preis.

Own hard work saved money. In addition to the water distribution system, the owner renovated the entire bathroom by himself! His original profession cannot be denied, and he really paid great attention to every detail. „Stone corners were the biggest problem, but I am glad that I put in the work and used them for the whole bathroom“, adds the owner. Stones 60 x 60 cm ceramic tiles interconnect vestibules, stairs, central living areas, bathrooms, toilets, as well as technical rooms. Thanks to their technical properties, the tiles of identical design were also used on all adjacent outdoor terraces in order to maximally interconnect the interior and exterior parts of the house. Floor heating is underneath the tiles, controlled by a heat pump.

The house has two different floors, from the viewpoint of areas and functions. The lower, entry floor offers access to a spacious hall, vestibule, which interconnects the kitchen, living room, terrace, bathroom, and technical room with the staircase. The Random series 60 x 60 cm ceramic tiles with under floor heating is a unifying element of the space. The „stone-like“ bathroom on the ground floor from the large-format tiles combines the stone tile design with white tiles. The owners used large-scale rectified tiles, supporting laying with narrow joints, while elegantly unifying surfaces, and minimising the number of joints to be cleaned.

The living interior appropriately combines a decent white-grey colour with brown and beige accents, matching materials such as glass, ceramic tiles, and timeless equipment. The bathroom is equipped in the same spirit, using the Trend and Casa series tiles.

WHAT CAN COLOURS INFLUENCE

A person's state of mind and temperament

2.
The optical perception of space, interior (the most important include the colours of walls, floors and ceilings)

3.
A common colour combines linked spaces with too many details

4.
Darker or accenting colours are ideal for livening up a dull or too large interior

5.
Bright bathroom tiles optically enlarge the appearance, while darker colours reduce it

6.
Colour tiles make certain furnishings stand out

A combination of 24 colours from the ColorONE and ColorTWO design tile offers will provide unlimited combination options. The wide variety of colours, various surfaces and formats will not only impress architects, but everyone who does not want a "classic" bathroom.

One colour does not necessarily have to dominate in the bathroom. Individual tiled sections can be happy and lively.

Playing with the colours of your imagination has limitless possibilities. For example, mosaics directly encourage colourful experiments.

The combination of single-colour tiles and their wide range of formats can result in various optical tricks on walls as a way of increasing, or reducing, the size that a room appears to have.
